01 April 2019

Azelis acquires Solvay product lines for agrochemical applications

Azelis is excited to announce it has acquired product lines of Solvay for agrochemical applications. Through this acquisition, Azelis will be the commercial source in Europe and Asia for the additives Rhodopol 23, Rhodopol G, Rhodopol 50 MC, Rhodopol MD and Agrho Pol. These additives are used as thickeners in agrochemical formulations. Solvay is a Belgium-based advanced materials and speciality chemicals company. This acquisition fits perfectly in Azelis' ambition to establish a leading position in the agrochemical business.

Ambrogio Erba, Market Segment Director Agri/Horti at Azelis, comments: "We have been working with Solvay for many years and are delighted to have acquired these well-established product lines, boosting our offer for agrochemical applications. It's a valuable addition to our current portfolio and strengthens Azelis position as an important player in the Agri/Horti market."
